

UNCG GRÖTH “Lunch & Learn”

— GRÖTH —
THE UNCG
GERONTOLOGY
RESEARCH,
OUTREACH, &
TEACHING HUB

*Facilitating transdisciplinary conversations to encourage aging-related research,
teaching, and community-
university partnerships*

Emerging Trends in Family Caregiving Using the Life Course Perspective

Tuesday • Nov. 11, 2014
11:00 - 12:15 p.m.
UNCG • Stone Building
Edwards Lounge

Elise Eifert provides insight into characteristics of baby boomers that separate them from previous aging cohorts and how these characteristics affect family caregiving using the theoretical lens of a life course perspective.

Eifert is Assistant Professor of Exercise Science and Health Promotion at Florida Atlantic University. She recently completed a UNCG Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Gerontology and will receive a PhD in Public Health Education in December 2014. Eifert earned a BS in Health Education from Southern Illinois University and a MS in Health Promotion from Indiana University. In addition to five years experience as an Alzheimer's disease and dementia educator, Eifert is a Certified Health Education Specialist and an Elder Abuse trainer for the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center.

Please bring your own lunch to enjoy during the presentation. Seating is limited. To attend, RSVP indicating this specific event and your name, e-mail and phone to gerontology@uncg.edu or to 336-256-1020.

For information about the UNCG
Gerontology Research, Outreach,
& Teaching Hub (GRÖTH)
visit
gerontology.uncg.edu

PHONE: 336-256-1020

Look forward to our next UNCG GRÖTH
“Lunch & Learn” presentation Wednesday, Dec. 3, 2014, noon-1:15 p.m.

Sponsored by the UNCG Gerontology Program
& the UNCG School of Health and Human Sciences.